Note, Porter implicates the Vice-Chancellor of UQ, John Hay, too.

This is not just a broken promise as admitted by Porter. The failure by UQ to honour its agreement is a FRAUD. Our Editor, Russell Mathews is disabled. This has been known to Porter and Hay, at all relevant times.

Dear Russell,

Legal report

You are quite correct that I told you I would provide you with a copy of legal advice we received.

Nevertheless, I must consider the wisdom of the University claiming legal privilege for the advice. On further reflection, and following discussion with the Vice-Chancellor in view of my earlier promise to you, I have decided I should not provide you with a copy of the lawyers' advice.

You will realise that implies that the University will be likely to decline to provide a copy under FOI should you seek it, on the basis of legal privilege.

Yours sincerely

Douglas Porter
Secretary and Registrar.

This Legal Report arose from the discrimination UQ practiced against Russell, due to his disability. Russell has assistance dogs. Porter was receiving false legal advice from UQ internally. Being legally trained, knowing this and to facilitate a resolution, Russell suggested to Porter that an External Legal Report be obtained for them both. Porter agreed provided Russell modified his behaviour [we have documented proof of this too], while awaiting the report, whereupon, they, Porter and Russell, would discuss the matter further. Russell agreed and did not press his claims pending the receipt of the Legal Report. That is consideration. Hence, that Promise was a CONTRACT.
